University Day

Visitors to view ins and outs of campus by actively participating in planned events

By JEANETTE NISHIMORI

University Day, UCSB's "open house" for prospective students and their parents and advisors, will be held tomorrow from 8 to 5.

Registration will be held in West and East Storke Plaza from 9:30. Guests will be invited to speak with representatives from 25 academic departments and 15 administrative departments, and may also buy tickets for lunch and the evening football game.

Tours of the campus will leave from the Plaza all day long, and a twenty-minute color film, "Campus by the Sea," will be shown on the half hour in the South Hall lecture room.

EXHIBITION

At 10, visitors may attend a diving exhibition at the pool, which is to be followed by a water polo match.

Guests will lunch at Ortega Commons from 11 to 1:45, and then meet with Chancellor Cheadle and AS President Ken Khachigian at a Campbell Hall assembly.

They will also be entertained by the UCSB Men's Glee under the direction of Dr. William Nelson.

A Frosh football game between UCSB and Long Beach State is scheduled for 2 at the Athletic Field, and the Varsity game with Long Beach will begin at 6 p.m., at La Playa Stadium in Santa Barbara.

Throughout the day, all major department offices will be open to the public. Students are invited to visit the chairmen and discuss academic matters.

Additionally, exhibits will be held in the educational television room (NH 2127), in the art gallery, and in the library.

Among the student groups participating as official guides and hosts are Honey Bears, Squires, Chimes, Spurs, Phaeteres, and the ROTC cadets who will also man parking areas.

According to Dr. Ralph Nair, faculty chairman for University Day, over 2000 visitors are expected.

Invitations have been sent to every high school and junior college in California, as well as to all California Scholarship Federation advisors.

SFPA

Students will be demonstrating at Storke Plaza when the visitors arrive.

According to Vice-chancellor Stephen Goodspeed, the vigil will not be in violation of campus regulations "as long as they stay out of buildings, do not interfere with regular University business, and do not interfere in any way with plans in connection with University Day."

Describing the purpose of University, student co-chairman Steven Myerson stated, "Our campus is known as 'Campus by the Sea.' This is a sort of a welcome. The main idea is so the students from high school and junior colleges, and their parents and counselors can see our campus, see how it's run, and just get a basic impression of UC at Santa Barbara.'"

CO-CHAIRMEN

Myerson and Terry Ro are the student leaders in charge of University Day. They are aided by the University Day committee and are advised by Dr. Gary Hess.

A Challenge to the 'High-Brows'

"We have under cultivation a very small portion of the terrain."

Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, speaking to a S.F.R.O. crowd yesterday, was displaying his usual scientific precision in describing the tremendous effort yet to be made by the intellectual community in making a "relevant" contribution to mankind.

It is not enough to deal with science and culture as if they were co-extensive, according to Dr. Oppenheimer, nor is it sufficient for the scientist to merely acquire a comparatively good partial knowledge of his disciplines. It falls to the responsibility of this community to come to grips with the idea of human progress and with the challenge of improving the human condition.

The test of the validity of any community, he points out, is in this relevance to man, this supplementing of the precision of science with the understanding of the relationships—the enabling relationships—between science and mankind.

And once the relationships are understood and then once they have been communicated, the people who understand them must work for the survival, liberty, justice and fraternity which they encompass.

This is the challenge. Not only must the scientist, the specialist learn from the massive arsenal of scientific knowledge which confronts them but they must apply what they have learned to human life with insight from day to day.

To do this, Oppenheimer suggests, the intellectual community must preserve its competence in its separate professions and must make the ability to communicate with other professions as serious an involvement as ever before.

The need for communication of which Dr. Oppenheimer spoke is as vital on the person-to-person level as it is to the world of scholarly publications. In an age of increasingly complex technology and the problems which technology in part engenders, the margin for error in misunderstanding on whatever scale becomes progressively less. Never before have the victories seemed quite as smugging, never before has the prospect of failure portended such serious consequences.

To the Men of Good Will

At present today, the Students For Political Action will begin a vigil to protest U.S. Participation in the Vietnamese War.

The protest represents a show of conscience over American involvement in a dirty little war in Southeast Asia. It is predicated on the assumption that there is no war, legal, humane nor of any real value, aside from face-saving, to the people of either country.

SFPA has also stated that this is a vigil for those who "give a damn" about American involvement. It should be made clear that the people who care about Viet Nam are not necessarily only those who are members of SFPA. It is that the people who care about Viet Nam are not necessarily only those who are members of SFPA. It is also the people who are beautifully organized either on the war or the non-war side of the issue.

The myth that South Viet Nam had under Diem or now has under Premier Ky democratic tendencies has been repudiated by such notables as Adlai Stevenson. President Kennedy has already stated that General Ky shows some idea of what type of men we are attempting to pursue as ends which I find odious and in the long-run disastrous.

Viet Nam protest today; vigil stirs counter-pickets

Campus political activity roles into action today when the students for Free Political Action's planned rally and all-night vigil meet the opposition of Young Americans for Freedom in the form of counter-picketing and demonstration.

SFPA, asking for a change in the manner of American involvement in the Vietnamese War, sparked the reaction from this campus's long dormant YAF chapter.

Today's rally and 23 troop participation in Viet Nam, on a scale beyond the present estimates of President Johnson and Defense Secretary McNamara.

Youthful participation for Free, a conservative youth group formed during Barry Goldwater's rise to prominence, meet Wednesday night to ensure its available forces for action against those protesting US participation in the Southeast Asian conflict, that is, SFPA.

Lured by Rick Schwartz, an active student political at UCSB, the conservative organization claims to support American involvement in Southeast Asia.

Sitting in conjunction with the International Days of Protest, today and tomorrow, YAF chapter.

Classics study called pertinent to knowledge of modern society

Many students may fail to recognize the merit in studying antiquity," feels H.D.F. Kitto; instead, emphasis is placed on the "here and now."

But the Classical Period presents for study the rise and decline of a civilization which may reveal the answer for foreseeing the inevitable change, perhaps, to take place in our own society.

Kitto, visiting lecturer here in the Classics Department this fall, was asked to express the aims of classical study. He pointed out that all history presents a "human experience," in which the basic individual problems faced in life remain the same. This "human experience" is confounded into literature.

He went on to explain that the classical civilization provides a unique completeness in its development and decline. The "antiquity" of the material studied allows the student a proper perspective into the affairs of man, accomplished only with distance.

Former Professor of Greek at the University of Bristol for eighteen years, Kitto stressed, "The interest in classics is tiny small."

He noted that the English college system emphasizes more specialization and depth in this field than is opposed to the broader approach within the British General Education System.

Before entering college, the English student has chosen his field of study, and if it is classics, has prepared himself in high school with four to five years of Latin and three years of Greek.

Knowledge

Kitto defined the extensive preparation for the major as a "working knowledge" to be expanded with advanced Greek history and philosophy.

The eminent Kitto is credited with knowing Greek thinking perhaps more than any other man alive," by Assistant Professor of Classics David C. Young.

He has written several books including "The Greeks" and "Three Plays of Sophocles," from which translation the Drama Department produced "Oedipus Rex" last year.

Education

Educated at Adam's College in Cambridge, England, Kitto was associated with the University of Glasgow and the University of Bristol before his retirement in 1962. He has been a visiting professor at Cornell, Brandeis, U.V. Berkeley, and Santa Barbara.

UCB students find fault with new rules

Students at UC Berkeley are apathy signs that autumn is drawing to a king Students of the University of California (ASUC) constitutional convention should be final and the chancellor's final set is developed with normal student participation, Chancellor Roger Heyns said.

Heyns, the former vice-president for academic affairs at the University of Michigan, took the Berkeley post this summer following an administrative shake-up by President Clark Kerr.

Heyns said the final rules will be drawn up by an Associated Students of the University of California (ASUC) constitutional convention.

A spokesman for the Free Socialist Union (FSU), which is not associated with the Berkeley At Berkeley, by a government outside the recognized channels, said a "constitutional convention" should be preceded by a declaration of independence from the Regents. "As long as the convention derives its authority from the Regents, it is incapable of being an effective student voice," he said.

The FSU secretary said if the chancellor had sincerely interested in student participation in rule making he would set up a student referendum for student ratification of the rules. He said the only meeting the FSU has had with Heyns was one at which about 40 other students were present. "The students just don't have any real voice. They're just advisory," he said.

Criticism

Criticism of the rules centered on provisions concerning students running tables, the keeping of financial records, and provisions for student hearings.

Both FSU members and an ASUC representative were critical of the sections of the rules dealing with student hearings. "The burden of proof should be on the chancellor, not on the student," said the FSU spokesman. The ASUC representative said that the rules say a student cannot be forced to give self-incriminating evidence but don't say who is to decide what is self-incriminating nor do they provide for a student refusing to answer.

He said the rules do not provide for the right to cross-examine prosecution witnesses. "Rights such as these should not depend on the good will of an individual chancellor," he said.

Socialists

A member of the Young People's Socialist League (YPSL) objected to the provisions stating student groups financial records had to be available for inspection if complaints were made concerning the use of these funds. He said none of the student groups kept complete financial records and that he wouldn't have to invent a group that would tell to produce them. The YPSL member also said of the new rules, "If they try to enforce them, they'll have a right."

Collegiate Press Service Prof speaks out

A political science instructor at Drew University who declared his support for the Vietcong if the U.S. continues its current policy in Vietnam, now faces possible dismissal.

James Mellon, a teacher at Drew and co-director of the Free University of New York, spoke at an all-night teach-in on campus last spring.

"I do not hesitate to state my position," he said. "I believe in the people's right to self-determination."

"National protest" called to oppose Viet Nam war

Student groups across the country are planning anti-war activities on campuses and in communities as part of a two-day protest Oct. 15 and 16 against the war in Vietnam.

The "National Days of Protest," called by the "National Committee to End the War in Vietnam," will consist of activities ranging from campus teach-ins to civil disobedience at military induction centers.

The demonstrations are being organized by local committees to end war and by local chapters of groups such as the Students for a Democratic Society, Da Bola Clubs, and the Young Socialist Alliance.

COMMITTEE

The national committee was organized during the "Assembly of Unrepresented People" in Washington in August to provide a clearinghouse for information for the various groups protesting the war in Vietnam.

In its call for the Oct. 15-16 protest, the committee declared that "unless we leave the confines of the usual government channels, we shall not be heard. The war shall continue. The last world war taught us at least one terrible lesson, that silence is affirmation, that inaction is assent."

"The war in Vietnam."

The form of the Oct. 15-16 protests will vary with local organizations. Most campus activities will involve teach-ins on Friday, Oct. 15, Mass demonstration, civil disobedience, and art-craft projects are predicted for Saturday, Oct. 16.

At Berkeley the Vietnam Day Committee is planning a teach-in on the 15th and demonstrations, possibly involving civil disobedience, on the 16th at both the campus and at Oakland army terminal.

The YOC, combining both students and faculty support, was recently attacked by 800 faculty members who denounced the committee's call for mass civil disobedience and its analysis of the war. In a four-page open letter, the signers expressed their opposition to the war, but declared that "we would resist in our duty, particularly as members of the academic community, if we failed to register publicly our disdian from the tactics and policies of the committee."

In an eight-page response, the YDC told critics: "You claim to be deeply concerned about the war in Vietnam. But you have united to attack a group which protests the war, rather than the government which wages it."

KERR

UO President Clark Kerr said this week that the YDC has not won the support it originally expected. "From a figure of 10,000 they are now talking about 1000 people in the demonstration, and from talk of civil disobedience they are now talking about protesting within the law," Kerr said.

At the University of Michigan, home of the national coordinating committee, neither students nor faculty has yet decided what form their protest will take. "There are a lot of crazy ideas kicking around, but nothing concrete," one observer credit which would save the

Tax credits are possible

Plans for granting tax credits to ease the financial burden of parents of college students and provide new sources of scholarships may pass in the current session of the 93rd Congress. The measure would permit a credit against the Federal income tax of persons paying tuition, room and other essential expenses. Each dollar of credit would reduce tax by one dollar.

Tuition tax credit would come to anyone paying the educational costs, reducing the threat of the student being priced off the campus.

In addition, scholarship-holding students from middle-income families could reduce their scholarships to the extent that they received credits. This would permit students to make more generous and more selective use of increasingly inadequate funds.

Opposition to the measure has come from several quarters. Much has been based on a misunderstanding of the difference between tax deduction, which would favor higher-income taxpayers, and a tax credit which would save the lower-income taxpayer a higher share of his income.

Veep Forman lauds liberalization of UC policy, blasts FSM tactics

"The only thing I regret about my first three years at UCSB is my failure to realize sooner that there is more to university life than lectures, studying, and checking out library books," Dave Forman, Associated Students' vice president, confessed.

Forman holds the office of vice president of the Association of College Unions (Region 15), as well as the AS vice presidency, and participates in Speakers Bureau, Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, and Cal Club.

As a member of Cal Club, a group of students who advise President Clark Kerr about student opinion on University matters, Forman is informed on such matters as the Berkeley and Santa Barbara Free Speech Movements.

"The recent liberalization of University policy proves that the Berkeley students had just cause for some of their protests," Forman stated. He added, "I don't approve wholeheartedly of their tactics; they could have been more diplomatic."

He believes that UCSB students showed diplomacy and maturity during their FSM protests.

SU boycott threatened

By PETER F. HAGEN

As graduate students, we have many occasions to use the Associated Students Store. Therefore, we believe we have the right as users of the bookstore to point out a few facts which distress us considerably.

FACT 1. The bookstore is in business to serve the students of this campus. If any policy can be implemented to save certain users of the store as much money as possible, one would suppose that the first to receive these benefits would be people from the student body.

But this is not so. Who gets a straight 10 percent discount on all purchases at the bookstore? The faculty!

We are not against the faculty. However, the faculty can afford to pay as much for items at the bookstore as do the students.

Therefore, we wonder why the student store only gives discount privileges to those who need them least.

FACT 2. The student store is a non-profit organization created to fill the needs of the student body. Now it is true that some of the profits obtained from sales are not channeled back to the users of the bookstore.

UCLA has managed to initiate a policy wherein 6 percent of the money spent by all students on books is refunded to the buyer of those books.

FACT 3. The bookstore is in business to serve the students while the local competition can see their way clear to do considerably.

We are not against the faculty. However, the faculty can afford to pay as much for items at the bookstore as do the students.

Therefore, we wonder why the student store only gives discount privileges to those who need them least.

FACT 4. The Graduate Student Association (GSA) has considered adopting a boycott of the campus bookstore as an expression of their displeasure at store policies.

In the past, some students have done so on their own. But covert action by a few does not demonstrate effective dissatisfaction. What is needed is overt action by the majority.

The Graduate Student Association (GSA) has considered advising a complete graduate student boycott of the campus bookstore.

This would involve about 1000 students or about 10 percent of the enrolled student body.

It should be pointed out that this percentage figure is due to change in the not-too-distant future to 45 percent of the student body.

The GSA hopes a boycott will not be necessary, but it would serve to demonstrate our displeasure with current student store policy.

Commenting on the internationality of science and culture, the Princeton professor of physics said that although science is quite international, culture is not.

HISTORY CITED

"If I'm one of those who hope that, in a certain sense, it never quite will be that the influence of our past (and) history, which is for different reasons and in different peoples quite different, will make itself felt and not lost in total homogeneity," he said.

Science and culture are not conscientious and "I cannot subscribe to view that science is something useful, but essentially unrelated to culture," the scientist noted.

According to Oppenheimer, if scientific discoveries are to have an effect on human thought and culture, they must be understandable and must feed some hope or need that prevails in the society.

GAUCHOS FACE BIGGEST CONTEST

and fullback Dennis Benedetti is a strong power runner who is called on frequently for first downs. These backs operate behind a strong and mobile offensive line which is led by 245 pound guard Roy Schmidt, a draftee of the Green Bay Packers. Thus it is obvious that the Gaucho defense really has its work cut out for it tomorrow night.

On the bright side, however, is the fact that Long Beach has to stop the Gaucho offense which is averaging over thirty points per game. The Gauchos will be the quickest team to oppose Long Beach this year, and the Mike Hitchman速度sters are determined to rip the Forty-Niners despite their national ranking.

BIG CHALLENGE

Jack Curtice's offense is an extremely difficult challenge for any team to defend, and with runners like Bob Blindbury and Jim Orear to worry about, the Forty-Niners will not be able to concentrate on stopping Hitchman's passes.

This game is a crucial one for UCSB, and the Gauchos are hoping that Long Beach is going to take the game too lightly, Sandwiched between San Diego State and L. A. State on the Forty-Niner schedule, the Gauchos may be looked upon as a 'breather,' but Curtice's hungry marauders are planning a rough evening for the cocky Niners.

From the stands this should be a very exciting spectacle with long passes and electrifying runs galore. Two explosive offenses are publicized as the main event of the evening's card, but the defenses will decide the issue. Fred Oppenzo draws the dubious honor of covering elusive Shelly Novack, while linemen like Mike Pattinelli, Bart Weitzenberg, Corky Barrett, and Jim Coward will be asked to stop Shy and to flatten Reilly before he can unload any long bombs. What an assignment!

To see a great game and to lend moral support to the finest Gaucho team in years is the task left to the student body and faculty. If we all pitch in, Long Beach State can be conquered!

THE THUNDERING HERD -- A mass of harriers swarms up the hill in last weekend's AAU run. The Gauchos face San Jose State and UCB tomorrow on the Berkeley course.

Harriers journey to Berkeley meet

By DAVE MOSS

COMPETING without junior standouts Rich Schankel, the Gaacho cross country squad heads for Berkeley tomorrow and a meet with UCB and San Jose State. Schankel has been out for two weeks with an injured heel, and arrangements for tomorrow night, after the meet.

The prestige and spirit of the crew team at Yale University is something to behold. They are so great, in fact, that the administration has provided, among other things, a beautiful boat house. It has none of the 50 odd shells which are used not only for the varsity but also for an extensive intramural program. A locker room accommodates the large number of rowers at Yale. The entire program costs the university at least one hundred thousand dollars.

One cannot say that the crew does not deserve such luxuries. Before the big races at the end of the year, the crew will work out up to six hours a day, early in the morning and often well into the night. There is no crew season; the rowers work out from the first day of school to the last.

In the winter they merely move into a special indoor pool with rowing machines. What does a crew man on can really be explained; perhaps it is the simple love of rowing combined with the desire to be the best, which are innate in their character.

The rowing situation at Yale is hardly unique. All over the East, at almost every college and at several prep schools, rowing is one of the big sports. The Eastern Spring is at the end of the year is one of the most talked about events of the season. Crew has become a tradition, built up over several years.

The crew tradition is beginning to catch on out west. Crews are popping up everywhere including, for the first time, at UCB this year. In 1960, Berkeley made one of the bigbreakthroughs for western crew. It beat every eastern college in the NCAA to win first place, and then made a valiant effort to represent the U.S. at the Olympics, only to be beaten by the Vesper Boat Club. Today a lot of western crews can play with the big boys back east.

The crew club is trying to get something going for UCSB. They are trying to do something constructive for the school, to build a tradition which will last long after the members have graduated. It is already off to a great start. A shell is coming in a month. The rowing barge the club is building is well on its way to being completed.

GRAD-SPOUSE CARDS AVAILABLE

Graduate and spouse athletic cards, good for admission to all regular 1965-66 home football and basketball events, continue on sale this week at the Associated Students Business Office and the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics (Robertson Gymnasium, Room 1004).

The cards, a new idea for Gauchar athletics, are designed for graduate students who have not purchased student body cards and for the spouses of registered UCSB students.

The cards will regularly sell for $7.00, but are currently priced at $5.00 because of the fact that the first two home football games have been played. The card will entitle the bearer to admission to the remaining home football games and 10 home basketball games, as well as give him or her the opportunity to purchase tickets at the special student price of $5.00 for the two inter-sectional basketball games December 11 (Baylor) and January 3 (Air Force Academy).

They have a coach from Oregon State. A company has agreed to build the club a boat house. Finally, student support is beginning to appear. Several girls from Tropicana are forming a shell and oars club. The first crew season will start this spring. The prospects for besting such schools as USC or Berkeley are not the best most schools would hope for, since one has ever touched an oar.

The crew club has a long way to go before it can begin thinking about the Olympics or of thirty shells to its name. But at least it is off to a start.
Soccer team faces challenge from tough Pomona squad

By MATT MOORE
Sports Writer

The UCSB soccer team will perhaps face its most formidable opponent this year when Pomona College, winner of the Eastern League last year, invades UCSB tomorrow afternoon at 2.

Pomona is led by two foreign players. Ambrose, from Nigeria, is leading the team in scoring, and Beskit, an inside right from Persia, is not far behind him.

But the Gauchos have more than two tricks up their sleeve. The front line, led by Winklehardt, Spratt, McLeod, and Kaltemecker, proved in last week's game against Whittier, that when they are on, they are unstoppable.

Steve Arnold and Bill Owen lead a defense which has yet to give up more than three goals in a game. Arnold is eligible for All-American honors. Niekoloff in the nets is one of the best goalies around.

Tomorrow's game should be another of the exciting and well-played matches which characterize UCSB soccer. The NCAA game begins at 12:00.

Frosh aim for second grid win

By PAUL MYERS
Lay-out Editor

UCSB's frosh football squad hosts Long Beach State tomorrow behind Robertson Gym at 2:00 p.m. in their first home game and the third of the season.

According to Coach Dave Gorrie, the Long Beach squad should be one of the toughest on the yearlings' five-game schedule, but after last week's performance, the Gauchos can be counted on to put on a good show.

Leading tomorrow's attack against Long Beach for the Gauchos will be Andy Shubin at half, who has lugged the ball 148 yards in 15 carries so far this season to lead the local ground-gainers.

WATCH THESE MEN

Others in the backfield to watch tomorrow are Bob Hehlman and Dick Honegger, both of whom hit pay dirt last weekend, and flanker Mike Borrow.

The UCSB quarterbacks Brian Kilpatrick, Tim Walker, and Jim Olsen, have completed 20 passes out of 41 attempts for 297 yards and five touchdowns.

In overall rushing the Gauchos are currently averaging over 300 yards a game, of which about half has resulted from UCSB's aerial attack.

A stubborn Gaucho defense, which held Pomona's ground attack to minus 48 yards last week, will give Long Beach backs a rough time tomorrow.

Students' evaluation

By SUZAN SCHULTZ

Students hold varied opinions as to the effectiveness of teaching assistants. In a recent EL GAUCHO survey, it was discovered that many students have had little experience with TAs. A typical statement received in the poll was "I really can't comment since I have only one; or I have never had a TA at all."

FRISHMAN VALUES

Among those who did comment, however, was a freshman math major with two TAs, Kathy Henke. "Although each TA varies," said Mrs. Henke, "in many cases their lack of experience really shows."

"In addition, many teaching assistants are too caught up in studies cuts down on the TAs' willingness and ability to teach," she elaborated. Mrs. Henke also expressed the opinion that "some TAs' have no self-confidence and are always looking for ways to show their superiority." However, the math major concluded that some TAs' who are more experienced are "real great."

Another sophomore, an economics major, felt that TAs' are not only inexperienced, but they fail to provide security. "They're good enough," conceded the freshman, "but if an older person, you feel more secure."

SOPHOMORE SPEAK

Sophomore opinions differed. Lynne Hasston, an English major, or indicated that she had been instructed by two very good TAs who "helped me a great deal."

According to Miss Hasston, "some TAs' clarified points I didn't understand. They just make life easier for me."

However, she admitted to having "two or two one didn't help matters at all."

Asked whether she thought the TA system was valuable, the sophomore concluded, "I really can't make up my mind whether they are or not. It all depends on the individual involved."

Another sophomore interviewed admitted that many TAs' "are more radical than the climate of the school. Consequentially, he concluded, "they don't speak out as much as they'd like to."

The economics major also stated that "as far as teaching goes there are some (TAs' who are more enthusiastic than the average professors."

On a very note, the sophomore concluded that compared with some professors, TAs' are "easy to get along with."

JUNIOR VIEWS

Junior zoology major, Larry Vickers, said, "TAs' need experience to become good teachers."

According to Vickers, prospective teachers need to obtain experience somehow. It is his belief that there is no better way to get this experience than as teaching assistants.

"Many times the TA takes the place of the prof."

He elaborated that professors are often too busy to have time for their students.

TA's speak about jobs

In recent EL GAUCHO interviews, three of the 320 teaching assistants at UCSB gave their views on that job, their studies, and their personal interests.

Kroger, Kroger, European History 4-A, described teaching as "revolutionary in the sense that I am just a TA."

Kroger is a 54-year-old graduate student from Walnut Creek, California. He specializes in modern European history, his father was a 1965 graduate of UCSB. After a year of law school at Hastings College, he returned to his alma mater majoring in European history to work in the DA office in his second Master's degree. After earning his Ph.D, he hopes to become a teacher at the university level.

PREREQUISITES

Kroger enumerated the criteria for selection of teaching assistants, listing graduate status and recommendations as the most important.

Although a TA, usually spends about twenty-five hundred dollars a semester for nine units of graduate study, obliging him to work two years, rather than the usual one for his Master's degree.

In addition, teaching assistantship is the basis for the first-year graduate assistantship. He has about 100 students a semester keeping all records and grading tests and papers.

Discussing his teaching assistantship in general, the young historian asserted "It is like very much being in a high school.

He stated, however, that "we once taught everyone in the line, we try to get to know one person better than the majority of the students."

When queried about the image of the "overworked TA," Kroger quickly replied, "I get up at eight hours of sleep. This university is in a sense, does not overwork anybody. People have plenty of time to sleep, eat, and relax. Basically, they don't work hard enough."

YOUNG

Terence Young, a teaching assistant in the Spanish department, is a graduate of Ventura Junior College, UCSB, and the University of Madrid.

The first year graduate student is working for his Master's degree and eventually to teach at the junior college level.

As a TA, Young is responsible for the independent instruction in an introductory Spanish language class.

Teaching assistants discuss jobs

overworked, although he teaches two classes a day and spends approximately three hours grading and checking homework. Commenting on his job, the TA said, "I like it quite a bit."

THEORY

Expounding on his teaching theory, Young stated, "Grammar is very important, but just as important is the culture. If you just teach grammar, Spanish would seem an artificial language."

"A TA has a problem because he is very close to the same age as his students, but he is in a demanding position. He should be friendly, but still keep order in the class. It's still a little strange to be called 'Sir, Young,'" he added.

In connection with his interests in Hispana, Young also commented favorably on Spanish women stating, "Spanish girls look like pixies. All the same, American girls take care of themselves. Spanish girls really go to get' after they get married."

LADY TA

The sole woman among the ten TAs of the Anthropology Department is Miss Roberta Edwards, a 1964 graduate of UCSB from Downey, California. Describing her job as a abrupt change from "Hey, Roberta!" to "Hello, Miss Edwards," the blond grad student commented, "It's great! I enjoy it because I like students and like people, but it's the most fun part of graduate school as far as I'm concerned."

"A TA should get to know the student and take the place of the professor in a large class. You cannot set yourself up as God and expect them to give and take with you," she added. Miss Edwards is interested in general cultural anthropology and hopes to teach in a junior college after receiving her MA. A sportswoman and sailor, she also "loves to cook and sew."}

PROBLEMS

Speaking of the problems of being a woman in an exclusive man's world, Miss Edwards stated, "It's really hard being a girl. They (the men) give you a bad time, I won't deny that it's fun though."

"Miss Edwards, "Most men have nothing against women, but in the back of their minds, they think that you will get married and not use the knowledge and experience you have gained."

Views given on student teaching

Junior Anne O'Connor, a sociology major, indicated that the competence of most TAs is proportional to the amount of responsibility they are given.

"Language TAs are good because they're completely on their own," she added, "whereas as TAs in large lecture classes don't have so much responsibility."

Indicating approval of the TA system, Miss O'Connor believes that the teaching assistant "gives students closer contact with someone at the teaching level."

"Many of the TA's I have worked with have been good! In addition, if there were no TA's you would have to hire more teachers."

She added, however, that if a girl's only goal in attending grad school and becoming a TA is marriage, "it is unfair for her to take the place of a man who will do something."

Discussing a common male misconception about female scholars, Miss Edwards stated, "Men are so competitive that they think that a woman is trying to compete with them. I cannot make a gross generality, but I am not here to compete with them just because they happen to be men. I am out to learn something and to broaden my own understanding. We should cooperate rather than compete."

14 Debaters open at State

Twenty members of UCSB's debate squad will travel to California State College at Los Angeles this weekend for its first forensic competition of the year.

Competition today will be in areas of oratory and oral interpretation, while debate competition will be staged tomorrow.

Those competing in individual and debate events will be Barbara Winter, Ricky Backman, Gary Gray, Richard Biocchi, Craig Smith, James Com, Mike Talley and Kent Sinclair.

Others are Moneyen Webb, Suzanne Morgan, Marti Simleigas, Janet Melk, Don Bramstrom, Charles Teikko, Roger Ritter, Tony Bairdson, Ron Singer, and Richard Weindberg.

'Landscape' is poetic portrayal

By Dale Luciano

Staff Reviewer

A CALIFORNIA LANDSCAPE (Carlin Publishing Company: $1.50) with photographs and prose by Jeff Lovelace, and introductory poem by John Mattlack. Available at Red Lion Book Store and Isla Vista Bookstore.

California Landscapes is a melancholic recollection of those yesterdays when life was somewhat complicated by threats, bombs, milstides, and bureaucracies.

Lovelace, much employed photographer and sometime student at UC at Berkeley (his work has appeared in the California Academy of Sciences), presents fifty straightforward shots of the beautiful areas where, among other modern sensations, Vandenberg Air Force Base has been located.

CONTRAST SHOTS

Many of the shots are interesting, a few are purposefully commonplace, several are graphically strong, i.e., close-up of Air Force "Peace is our Profession" sign, turn-of-the-century chariots, "jumping jackass of the maddening crowd.

However, at times such contrast is excellent, as when Love- late shadows the unmanned chariot of field where rabbits run and children play with the foreboding "census...sleep is on the ground...with 'birds' in them...''

POETIC LENS

Lovelace's view of California is often poetic in its mere simplicity: soft rolling hillsides with California poppy and Indian paintbrush...a few miles away...across fields plowed black,...and one last endorphin range of hills, "at the ocean...and you can be scarce...

The introductory poem by John Mattlack, an English major at UCSB, is laconic and hushed, yet proficient in its attempt to mourn the departing era of splendor and the coming age of sparing: "The valley is still green...sometimes...Used to be the flat dark dirt was covered with Crazy quilt flowers (grown for their seed value...of course but still...beautiful).

'Anything Goes’ goes Hawaiian

Sightseeing, rehearsal, relaxation, and performances were the order of the day for the 18-member troupe of performers from UCSB on the first leg of their two-month USD-AETA Oriental tour.

Arriving at Honolulu’s International Airport on October 2, the cast was transported to the Fort DeRussy billets on Waikiki Beach where they were briefed for their six-day stay in Hawaii, reports Tim Lyons, member of the troupe.

Most of the day was spent in rehearsal for the variety show performance of Cole Porter’s “Anything Goes” at Pohkuloa Training Area high in the mountains of Hawaii, where over six hundred servicemen sat on a hillside (Greek Theatre style) watching the show performed on a flat-bed truck, quickly converted into a stage. Monday’s schedule included two shows, at the East-West Cultural Center and at Hickam Air Force Base. Tuesday found the troupe at Wahiawa Naval Radio Communications Center, where four hundred sailors enjoyed the show.

Ending the Hawaiian stay, the cast performed at Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station, the first to be hit by the Japanese during their attack on Pearl Harbor. The UCSB ensemble was awarded a special certificate of merit for their performances. This brief visit to Hawaii gave the troupe an increasing awareness of the intricate, vast operations of our Armed Forces overseas. The students gained the opportunity to perform under a wide variety of conditions and before different type of audiences — an experience that should prove valuable as they move farther into the Pacific command to Japan, Korea, Okinawa, and Taiwan.

Student workshop to cover newly formed IV League

The first Isla Vista League Workshop will be held next Sunday, October 17, at Oak Park in Santa Barbara. The purpose of the workshop is to familiarize student officers from the off-campus residence halls with the operation and goals of the league, and to possible IV League activities.

Beginning at 9:30 a.m. and ending at 4:00 p.m., the day’s activities will include speeches, several discussion periods, a picnic lunch, and a question-and-answer period. IV League President Don Weintraub, A.S. President Ken Kachigian, A.W., President Pam Nelsen, and a representative from the Project Pakistan team will speak to those attending. Students invited to the workshop will include the off-campus supervised housing unit hall presidents, composite hall executive cabinets, and the composite hall IV League representatives.
