A.S. Welcomes 1990, Students With Storke Plaza Bash

by Julie Bloch

This Friday, from noon to 5 in Storke Plaza, A.S. will bring the government to the students in party form to celebrate the 1990's and promote student groups.

Striving toward "better relations between departments...more harmony," party organizer and Rep-at-Large Craig Fok has managed to gather KCSB, Program Board, Daily Nexus, Community Affairs Board (CAB), Residence Halls Association (RHA), and A.S. Legislative Council staff together in an effort to reach out to the students.

According to Fok, this is the first time that these groups have made a collective effort to reach the student population.

In working together, they hope to inspire students to participate, despite prevalent apathy. "We want students to know that we recognize them and offer them a service they should take advantage of," said Fok.

Events Schedule

Free Tower tours..12-4:30pm
Gospel Choir.....3-4pm
KCSB music.....12-5pm
Live music.....12-3pm

Besides having fun, involving the student community is the main aim of the party. A.S. will distribute brochures describing these student groups, and there will be an open house at the Daily Nexus. Other events and activities will include the UCSB Gospel Choir performance from 3-4pm, KCSB music until 5pm, free Storke Tower tours from 12-4:30, and food sales.

In addition to information, live music will be provided by Walking Wounded, a Los Angeles-based folk-rock band which the Village View called a "treasure trove of music and thought." Walking Wounded can be heard from 12-3 with another band, yet to be named.

"Everyone is invited," Fok encouraged, "I want people to feel more welcome here and know that they can get involved if they want to."

Walking Wounded- these folk-rock musicians will play live at the A.S. Party in Storke Plaza on Friday, Jan. 26, from 12-3pm.

Halls Unify Student Interests

RHA to decide fate tonight

by Ned Hearn

The fate of a proposal to add as many as seven new halls to the already existing ten interest halls on campus is to be decided tonight at a Residence Hall Association meeting.

Presently UCSB offers ten interest halls to students who wish to experience something different during their living experience on campus. Students that want to can request to live on a specific hall with other students who share the same interests.

The halls in active use now include: International Living, Community Service and Leadership, Science and Technology, Health and Fitness, Computers, and several others.

Students who want to can request to live on a specific hall with other students who share the same interests.

The new proposal could increase the number of halls offered to as many as seventeen. The proposed halls include Proforming Arts, Environmental Awareness, Sign Language, Creative Arts, Chemical Free Society, African American Cultures, and Entrepreneurs of the Future. Some of these halls are already successfully in use at other universities.

However, upon talking to a student who lived on the Community Service and Leadership hall last year it became apparent that the expansion may not be such a good idea at this time. Sophomore Rachel Doherty felt that her experience in the Community Service and Leadership Hall was worthwhile as it was "...a goot introduction to what UCSB has to offer co-curricularly," and provided many other opportunities, but it wasn't without its faults.

The new proposal could increase the number of halls offered to as many as seventeen.

According to Doherty, many of the interest halls have students who did not specifically request them, which seemed to break up the unity somewhat.

Further, Doherty believes that future plans should concentrate on improving existing halls better before starting any new ones.

If you support this proposal tell your RA and go to the RHA meeting tonight located in Santa Rosa Hall.

Leg. Council Report

compiled by Craig Fok

The following is a list of programs the Legislative Council Members are implementing. Read on to see what your elected officials are aiming to accomplish.

Ellen Cummings--

Goal: Working to find a place for re-entry students.

Rachel Doherty--

Goal: To increase diversity among students who have been accepted to UCSB. An overnight program, called "Let's Spend the Night Together." Low income and under-represented high school Juniors and Seniors are invited to come and "see" UCSB through our eyes. They will get a campus tour, eat and sleep on-campus, and go to classes with a UCSB student in their intended major. Applications to host a student are at the front desks of all six on-campus resident halls. For more information call Rachel Doherty at 961-2566 or come up to the A.S. Main Office and leave a note in Rachel's box.

Rob Fetterman--

Goal: To create an intensive public relations campaign between the student body and A.S.. The object of this campaign is to increase the level of awareness that individual students have pertaining to their government and its functions on this campus. The hope is that the general alienation toward A.S. will be decreased, thus supporting greater participation within its bounds. The campaign is to let students know what each individual A.S. board and committee accomplishes. It provides an opportunity for people to decide whether to get involved in political issues that interest them. If anyone would like to see what local government does, feel free to come in and see Rob Fetterman.

Shawnie Ochoa--

Goal: Rate & Recharge Grievance Procedure Project. Leave a message for Shawnie in the A.S. Main Office for more information (961-2566).

Jeff Rosenberg--

Goal: To complete the establishment of the A.S. International Student Exchange

Program and improve parking in Isla Vista. The formation of the A.S. Exchange Program is well underway, and Jeff is working toward making it a permanent A.S. Committee. He is determined to insure its continuance. In Isla Vista, he is attempting to get rid of the unnecessary red zones and trying to expand the empty lots. Also, he is working with MTD to decrease the number of bus stops.

Curtis Shaw--

Goal: Minority faculty and staff recruitment and retention.

Jason Wyland--

Goal: To increase participation in Associated Student organizations and increase the voter turn-out. Jason is working with the Academic Affairs Board and would like more student input and suggestions. He is also working on the creation of the A.S. International Exchange Committee.

Craig Fok--

Goal: To show students the fun of involvement. To help students realize that they are very fortunate to attend UCSB and shouldn't miss opportunities to get involved in college activities. Also, to have a greater voter turn-out. Last year only 27% of UCSB students voted in the elections. One of my special projects for this quarter is to host an Associated Students UCSB 1990 Party. During this event, I hope students will think about the 1990's and how they can improve themselves as people. A person can improve him/herself by getting involved and learning about his/her environment. Upon graduation, I hope you don't say, "Awh, I should have gotten more involved during my college years!"

Jerelyn Johnson--

Goal: To have all nine UC Campuses voice their support in discontinuing the UC Management of Livermore and Los Alamos Nuclear Weapons Laboratories. A referendum will be put on the Spring Ballot so students can vote to urge the Regents to discontinue their management of the Labs. Jerelyn, Lobby, and Amy Supinger are working toward getting all other UC Campuses involved in this vote.

Al Klein--

Goal: Student empowerment training workshop weekend.

Michelle Koskella--

Goal: A successful UCSB Drug Awareness Week. The main purpose of this week is to heighten awareness regarding the drug problem.

April 16-20 is Drug Awareness Week, and Michelle is in charge of this event. She is working on getting various speakers of all beliefs to attend. She hopes to have a strong debate between those who want to legalize drugs, and those who do not.

Wade Lawrence--

Goal: To increase voter registration in order to pass SCA 1 which will keep student fees from raising astronomical amounts. If SCA 1 doesn't pass, student fees may raise 20% higher annually. State Constitutional Amendment #1 (SCA 1)--Allow the state to raise gasoline tax and trucking fees to fund highway and mass transit projects. It will also modify the Gann Limit (cap on state spending that increases each year only to keep pace with the cost of living and population increases) so it is more in line with the available revenues, linking the limit to growth and personal income rather than an increase in the cost of living.

Melanie Ogren--

Goal: To provide outreach and networking to students about Associated Students through a new program called A.S. I.N.F.O., which stands for Associated Students Information Network for Outreach.

There are several ways A.S. INFO will work to provide outreach:

- 1) Presentations about A.S. to campus groups and residence halls.
- 2) Letters to students to keep lines of communication open.
- 3) Card contacts and suggestion boxes to obtain student input and initiate student involvement.

In general, Melanie wishes to create means for students to participate and have a say in what A.S. does since A.S. is students working for students.

Recycling Effort Launches into 1990

A.S. promotes conservation and re-use for the new decade

by Mike Lawrence

In its first year of existence, the A.S. Recycling Committee, headed by Uzi Daniel, has made remarkable headway in the fight against our waste disposal problem.

Starting with the UCen as its pilot locale, they've already turned in hundreds of bottles, cans, and newspapers for recycling efforts. Currently they oversee 18 small bins and four dumpsters in the UCen, and plan to expand to the entire campus in the 90's.

They have just recently hit upon their first major snag, however. At this point in time, the contributions are consistently more than the existing manpower can effectively handle on a monthly basis. The committee foresaw this hazard and hired a Recycling Coordinator to overcome the inevitable onslaught of newspaper and other recyclables, but unfortunately, due to injury, he was forced to resign. Hence, the position is open and applications are being accepted for the job. Once this is overcome, though, the effort will continue in its march toward the future.

Included in its plans for growth, is incorporation of the many departments that already have their own recycling program in operation. The plan will start programs in the remaining departments, and include large buildings such as the Events Center, Robertson Gym, and others. These goals are long-range, and would be the committee's priority for several years to come.

1990 Law now requires all nine UC campuses to have recycling programs. UCSB was one of the few to already have implemented a program.

The committee has gained support from the Community Environmental Council (the C.E.C.) of Santa Barbara. This organization has been responsible before nearly all the recycling efforts in Goleta and Santa Barbara for the past several years. Isla Vista is soon to be incorporated due to its developing interest in recycling efforts.

Most recently, the California State legislature became involved in the effort by passing a law requiring the UC Regents to have some sort of recycling program instituted on all nine of the U.C. campuses by Jan. 1, 1990. This is a unique step, in that it singles out the U.C. system in the drafting of the law. U.C.S.B. was one of the few campuses to already have a program in place at the time of the implementation of the law.

The committee has made a genuine first step in solving a large scale problem at the local level. Now it is facing the future with a determined glare, ready to tackle any new problems that may develop. As always, any students wishing to help in the effort may come to the A.S. Office, on the third floor of the UCen and inquire about working on the committee.

Attention: Applications are now being accepted for the position of Recycling Coordinator.

Did you know...

One ton of newspaper = 17 trees

One ton of glass = 117 oil barrels

One recycled can = 4 hours electricity

80% of all toxins

burned into the air, or buried in landfills are recyclable

Americans produce an average of 4.5 pounds of trash a day compared to 0.5 pounds a day in under-developed nations.

In five years, Los Angeles will have no place to put its trash. Do you want it in your backyard?

CALPIRG Works for Local, Global Environmental Awareness

by Shannon Gray-- local chair CALPIRG

In the 50's, it was goldfish swallowing. The 60's saw the love beads and bell bottoms that made it famous. Then it was disco and polyester in the 70's. The 80's exuded yuppie-ism and Jim Bakker. Now, it's beginning to look like environmentalism could be a momentous fad that sticks through the 90's to make some real and progressive change on social and legislative level. With this, more and more citizens are taking heart and time in getting involved with the now re-flourishing movement.

The California Public Interest Research Group, or CALPIRG, is a group that enables students to enact both social and political change on the serious environmental, consumer, hunger, and homelessness issues that face this country today. Inspired by Ralph Nader in 1970, the non-profit and non-partisan group has grown to become the state's largest environmental and consumer group. It provides students on this campus and three others--UCLA, UCB, and UCSC--with an experienced staff of advocates, lobbyists, researchers, and organizers that allow students to really "make a difference." Just last quarter, CALPIRG's campaign kickoff meeting hosted 220 UCSB students. Presently, the organization is working on the Earth Day 1990 project where different environmental issues are addressed monthly. The idea is to first educate the members and others about the problem so that they can work towards solutions for them. These issues include some of the leading edge environmental dilemmas that face us today: rainforest depletion, toxic pollution, pesticides on our food and in our water, and global warming. Right now, CALPIRG is working with a coalition to qualify a ballot initiative for the November vote called the Environmental Protection Act of 1990. It addresses the issues of pesticides, forest depletion and oil spills within the state, creating an unprecedented opportunity for Californians to alter the state's direction and attitude toward the environment.

Earth Day 1990

Be a part of the decade of the environment

- save the world's rainforest
- pass the laws to protect Californians from pesticide poisoning
- reduce the use of toxics
- prevent ocean pollution

Attend organizational meeting tomorrow
Chem. Room 1179

So, why does this organization draw in such a large volume of student participation and activity? Simply, CALPIRG provides unparalleled access to statewide networking, staff and resources to students that want to make change in the societal and environmental problems they see. Personally, this organization allowed me to work on environmental issues and really influence state politics to get behind innovative legislation. I also developed my leadership, organizational and public speaking skills far beyond what I had thought I was capable. I can now see a better future within which I can actively influence our elected officials to make responsible and progressive change.

SPORTS

It's the Ultimate!

by Jennifer Mueller

What do you get when you combine a die hard athlete with speed, agility, accuracy and awareness?

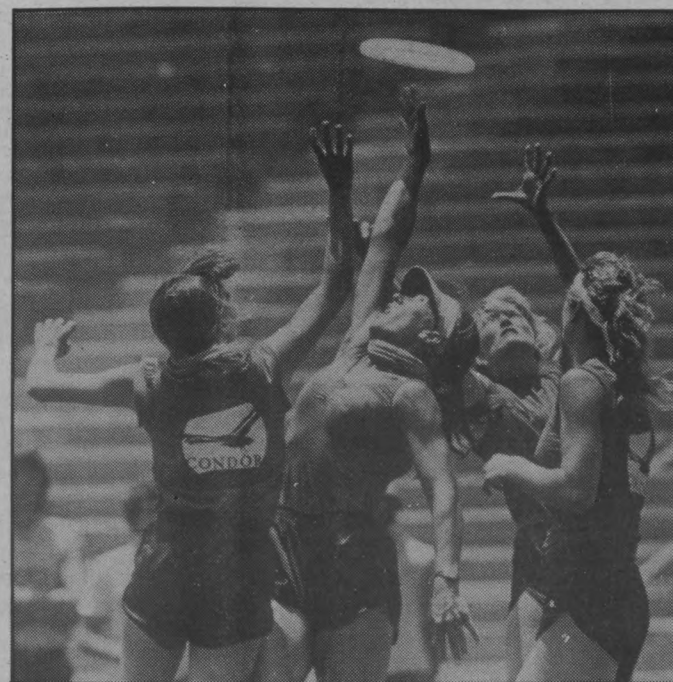

That's right- the "ultimate" athlete playing what is known as one of the most strenuous sports ever: Ultimate Frisbee. Ultimate Frisbee is a unique combination of soccer, football, and frisbee in which players go to extreme lengths to get a frisbee into their opponent's end zone.

Both UCSB Men's and Women's Ultimate Frisbee Teams are preparing for a great season and they are especially looking forward to sweeping the national tournament in Tempe, Arizona early in February. The Men's team, or "Black Tide," has been the defending National Champion for the last two years and the Women's team, the "Burning Skirts," was National Champion two years ago and took third place last year.

If you are interested in putting your body to the test and having a great time while doing it, why not give Ultimate Frisbee a chance! Both teams practice about twelve hours a week and anyone is welcome to come out and give the game a try. Any questions concerning Ultimate Frisbee should be addressed to either Heather Park, the Captain of the Women's team, or Gregg Wadly or or Tom Duffy, the Co-Captains of the Men's team. Their phone numbers can be obtained in the Campus Activities Center on the third floor of the UCEN.

Ski 'til you drop

by Traci Boyle and Jennifer Mueller

The UCSB Ski Club is affiliated with UCSB by name only, but 400 students enjoy membership in this very active club. The club officially meets once a quarter, although President Kirsten Kleist instructs her twenty-four member staff to plan activities virtually every week. Every Friday night club members have Happy Hour on Del Playa where they wear their tee-shirts, included in the $20 membership fee. This fee allows a member to participate in any activity or any of the three trips currently planned. At Thanksgiving, the club travels to Utah. Then the club participates in an all-Cal ski trip to Vail, Colorado over Winter Break where 1100 students congregate from all UC campuses. In the Spring, the slopes of Sun Valley, Idaho welcome UCSB skiers. Kirsten intends to plan another trip, maybe to Tahoe after Winter Break as well. If you have any questions, call the Ski Hotline at 566-8102 or contact the advisor, Naomi Johnson at 961-4551. The club's motto is "Ski to Die" and Kirsten urges all of you to "party hard, meet new people and ski your brains out!" by joining the Ski Club.

Rowdy Rugby

by Traci Boyle and Jennifer Mueller

"It's like 'Kill the Carrier' but without rules!" explains Mic Raichelson, and they are slim rules at that. The UCSB Rugby club team plays hard, rain or shine, and who would have thought that this group of 55 fun-loving guys actually enjoys tackling, running and destroying the ball carrier at all costs. But, as team president Raichelson claims, this is a serious team and rugby carries the prestige of being the second most popular sport ever!

What is rugby? Ken Katz, vice president, says, "the common misconception is that it is football without pads, but it is much more than that." In fact, the team practices four times a week and holds games all day on Saturday. The "C" team plays at 11 am with the "A" and "B" teams following at two hour intervals. Fall quarter games are considered pre-season status, but during winter quarter the team enters league play, joining nine other Southern California and Arizona teams. After Spring Break, the UCSB Rugby team joins 64 other teams to participate in the largest rugby tournament in the world. This season, the UCSB team enjoys the status of being the reigning tournament champions!

After practice and games, the team may party with the competition or watch a video of the game. Raichelson feels that the social portion of the team is just as important as the competitive part. Any questions about joining the Gaucho Rugby team can be addressed to Raichelson, Vice Presidents Katz and Pete Smith, or to captains Rich Gebele and Zeke Buxton. The phone numbers are listed in the Campus Activities Center on the third floor of the UCen.

Come Sail Away ...

by Lori Cowen

Come sail away with the UCSB Sailing Team. You came to Santa Barbara for the sun, the surf, the school (?), and the "lifestyle." How can you deny yourself the thrill of slipping yourself into an FJ (Flying Junior), catching some wind and sailing the Pacific? The coed team is comprised of both weathered and first time sailors and ranks as one of the top five teams in the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association (PCIYRA) Southern California division. Sailing out of the Santa Barbara Harbor, the team runs race courses for practice during weekday afternoons and occasional weekends. The UCSB Team is looking forward to hosting a regatta against UCLA the weekend of January 27. Although the team competes primarily against other California schools, some members will be travelling to the Coast Guard Academy in April to compete nationally. According to the team's captain, Keith Lupton, "The team is a great outlet for people who want to sail and have fun. We work together and support each other to make a strong team." If the glory of competition and exciting après sail parties sound enticing to you, then drop by one of the meetings held every Tuesday at 6 pm in 2127 Girvetz or call Keith at 685-0375.
